

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

This invention relates to methods of detecting or inferring the presence of malignant or premalignant cells in a human that express 5T4. Provided are methods for detecting 5T4 RNA in blood, plasma, serum, other bodily fluids, cells, and tissues. The invention thereby provides an aid for the detection, diagnosis, monitoring, treatment, or evaluation of neoplastic disease.